1. Introduction

We assume that in the past weeks and months you have worked intensively with yourself and meanwhile, most of your fears, lack, self-punishment, destruction, victim-perpetrator programs, limited thinking and behaviour patterns are now resolved in your system. If you feel inwardly that, this is not yet, we ask you to put this book aside and to deal with Book 1 and Book 2 and especially yourself.

If, however, you are fully prepared to continue walking and fully enter the new era, we invite you to the following action:

Visualize a big, wide, beautiful river. Right in front of you. Be aware of it, in all its greatness. If you look around a bit, you will see a bridge near you. Go consciously to this bridge and start crossing it. In the middle, you stop and turn around. Behind you is everything you have ever experienced, in your life. Be aware of it, in all its brightness. Bow down to it and then say consciously goodbye to everything behind you. Knowing that everything, really everything, remains as an essence in you.

Turn around now and walk deliberately forward. At the end of the bridge, you stop for a moment, breathe in and out, and enter the land of the new era. Stand still, breathe again consciously and decide to take on fully what belongs to you.

Then you turn around again, look at the bridge and allow it to dissolve.

If you like, visualize a bench near you, sit on it, let your eyes wander, and let the new environment touch you.

It is an important moment in your life and much will change now. First, you are personally equipped with everything that serves you and thus, does well in the depths.

Your last time had characterized by breaks of relationships and the disappearance of so many confidants. Now, on the other side of the river, it is time for these areas to fill up again with suitable and beneficial things and people.

Therefore, we invite you to allow these fully, here and now sitting on this bench.

It is still about you at this stage of your journey.

Well, the focus is no longer on letting go and transforming. You have completed this task more or less. Now, it is about blessing your life in every way. Yet, you have changed your habitat it will be in a new, perhaps somewhat strange way.

Implementation means introduction and in this book, we will accompany you to find and set up your own way of living in the new dimension.

“We” are in this book:

Archangel Michael, member of the Ruler's Council of the Angelic Kingdom and companion and supporter of various people who are on the final stage of their realization.

Lady Nalya Og-Min, Ascended Master and Master of Consciousness. No other Ascended Master was as often humanized as a Master. She studied human characteristics in a variety of ways and is as familiar with this topic as probably no other being is.

Adamus St. Germain, Ascended Master and current teacher of many people on the path of awareness.

Susanne Edelmann, current embodiment of Lady Nayla. Valuable human being who, with her great love, has a lasting effect on the hearts of humans and has the ability to formulate the messages of the master beings into readable and intelligible words.

In this book are several additional energies interwoven. A considerable part of the White Brotherhood and thus the Ascended Masters lay their wisdom and their energy into this book. We often discussed and shared the wisdom of each other and then let it also be part of these books “becoming a master”. We see and appreciate what you are doing and there is a great love and joy, when we are with you. Therefore, this book is written with great love and joy. A joy and love that you will feel while reading, hopefully.

As you read this book, you dive not only into cognitive knowledge. If you open yourself, you rather dive into highly effective energies that supports you personally on your path and help you on the way of changing your life for the better.

May this book serve you!

With all our Love

Adamus St.Germain - Archangel Michael

2. Introduction to the new time

The new time is synonymous with the time that will be on this earth when people have completely detached themselves from the old and restrictive patterns, beliefs and norms of the old, exclusively materially based time. Being aware of themselves again. The laws of the energy-based living space of the fifth dimension have captured and can apply. And - have found a beneficial way for themselves to live, act and create energy based in a material world.

Yet, if you read these lines, you will probably understand, here and now in 2019, there is still a long way to go until the greater part of humanity is in this new time. You are thus, one of the avatars. One of the pioneers who will explore and join the new time on this planet. You have now successfully put most of your inner cleansing and detachment work behind you and have connected stably with your divine essence. Thus, you are now facing the much nicer part of your task in this life.

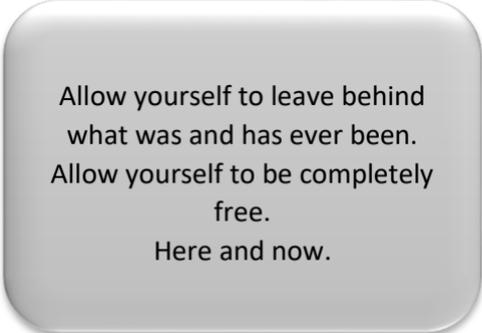

How exactly you will introduce and implement the new, will develop according to you. Therefore, you can wholeheartedly look forward to all the beautiful things that are in front of you. At the same time, however, the great part of humanity is still imprisoned in the old, exclusively material-based third dimension and an increasing part, more or less conscious, sometimes also clearly confused, in the extremely intense phase of the transition. Of course, this fact will not leave you and your life without a trace. You thus, continue to need it, the stable connection to your divine self and the fundamental trust in its guidance.

At the same time, you will increasingly recognize that you are one. Although you are currently playing a human role and are doing so many valuable experiences. Ultimately, however, the divine self seems sometimes strange and big to you. Adaptation takes time and meanwhile, there is an ongoing and increasing fusion and awareness at this level as well. Thus, when we write again about the human self and the divine self, in this book, we write it more for the sake of clarity than it corresponds to the actual truth. A truth that first needed a gradual introduction, until you actually get it more and more. It also does not require active action on your part in this aspect. It happens in its time and suddenly, on a wonderful morning, you will wake up, capture and be.

In recent years, sometimes you have lost some confidence in the good and beautiful. Also, the good and beautiful of the way in which you suddenly found yourself there and went more or less consciously. Too much was usually the negative burden that has been shown to you through your cleaning and dissolution process continuously. And now, as the negative dissolves significantly in your life and sometimes for hours or even days, no longer appears, you do not really perceive this significant change and assume that even more negative will continue to pounce on you and confront you. Therefore, we invite you to relax your focus you have had so far. To perceive what is good for you. Here and now.

Allow yourself to leave behind what was and has ever been.
Allow yourself to be completely free.
Here and now.

If you step into the new time, you will be detached from the old structures bit by bit. This often feels very painful to you and generates a lot of uncertainty, anxiety and worry. And we can understand this well, because every single break away is a challenge in itself: You are leaving the job market, the education system, the financial and economic system, the relationship patterns, the health care system and the family and social structures of the old days. Step by step. A little more every week.

This feels like dissolving out of society and life itself. Yet, that is not. It is only a huge amount of dissolving of structures of the old days. You still are. Your life still is.

You are on a path in a good and healthy land and what you in now, is just an ongoing process.

Sometimes, it helps releasing your focus on what dissolves and instead recognizing what reveals new. You not just lose. You gain as well. Only your focus needs expanding.

The new time knows no deadlocked structures, no identifications and no dependencies. As challenging as this detachment is for you, it leads you into freedom at the same time. A freedom that you have never experienced before.

Thus, leads you straight into the next challenge: Your human mind does not know full freedom. A state of full freedom triggers therefore, more irritation and insecurity but joy in your mind. If there is full freedom, there are no standards and structures anymore. No values and no obligations. The old days were full of them and therefore, suggested security and inclusion. You have been a more or less clearly defined part of society so far and you knew more or less right or wrong. If now the structures dissolves, your mind does not now right or wrong anymore. A state, which frightens it a lot. In addition, if you dissociate from the structures of the old day, it feels like dissolving out of the society. Again, a very frightening story. Moreover, the ongoing process resolves all your former identifications (self-employed advertising expert, management consultant, etc.).

Your divine self, leaps for joy over the increasing independence and freedom. Your human self, on the other hand, loses all its support, its previous identifications and its integration into society. That is exactly what you are in now. A condition that challenges you to the limit and sometimes makes it very hard to carry. In addition, most or none honestly, people around you, do not understand what you are experiencing right now. Therefore, they do not realize the immense performance that you are doing right now. On the contrary, you often have to listen to all sorts of unpleasant things.

We do really hope that you, at least, understand (now) and you do appreciate yourself.

Your state now, throws you completely on your divine essence. You need a clear and stable connection to your divine self. You absolutely need a very honest and true love relationship with yourself and you need a great stabilization ability. These three aspects together provide the safe ground for your current now, but also for your further course of action. Your holistic system delivers to an incredibly large ongoing change and thus makes a very large adjustment performance.

Please do estimate and respect what you are carrying, right now.

Ultimately, from the perspective of the old world, you will no longer be definable. A normal state in the new time, because you are there at any time transparent comprehensible as who you are. It therefore requires neither any predicates nor identifications. An incredibly simple, beautiful and effortless condition.

You can immerse in this state consciously right now and feel it. You can feel its beauty in be in there, just a while. This may help you to understand that you are in a transitional phase and give you the strength to go one. Walking through the instabilities and the uncertainties. Enduring the lack of understanding and the lack of appreciation of your environment.

You are in a transitional phase right now and thus, you will repeatedly experience interfaces between the old and the new times. It helps a lot, if you recognize for yourself when you are in what dimension and thus, capture what is happening to you in this specific situation.

In addition, we recommend that you act out of the new era whenever possible. This will not always be possible for you, especially at the beginning. Sometimes the beliefs and structures of a certain environment are still too rigid for them to soften. In such situations, it helps to get involved in what is right now: the conditions, structures and limitations of the old time. On the other hand, some situations may trigger insecurities and questions in you and you have to find clarity in yourself first, until you can clearly speak and act on the outside.

We may repeat ourselves and at the same time wish that it becomes a kind of unconscious behaviour on your part. As soon as you feel unwell, enter into your heart's space. Find peace there and get the necessary explanations and answers to what is on your mind right now.

As you enter the new time, more and more, all areas of your life are subject to the laws of the new time and it helps you, if you are now constantly aware of it. This means, for example: If you found a company, it will be a new era company. Which means that it is subject to other circumstances and laws and thus behaves differently. Therefore, it cannot be led with the management instruments of the old time, nor does it behave like an enterprise of the old time.

Incidentally, this also applies to a love-relationship of the new era, a project of the new era etc. They no longer function according to the rules of the old days. Therefore, we recommend that you let go of all your expectations and curiously get involved in the new, instead.

At the beginning, projects of the new era are often rarely or not at all active on the outside. Material based considered, they seem inactive and it requires your energy-based perception to grasp how they are doing and what is happening right now. Sometimes, even you think your project is dead, because in the outside it is extremely quiet. However, this is only the material based perception. A perception that focuses data and facts and acts within the framework of a linear development.

The energy-based dimension is subject to other laws and thus works quite differently. You have now consciously entered the new era and we ask you to be aware that you and all aspects of your life are now also subject to the laws of the new time. A project of the new era arises from inside to outside and here it is completely normal, if once in the outside for a long time nothing shows up. Nevertheless, the quality of a project and its growth can be recognized clearly at any time. By means of your extended perceptiveness. Engage your full attention in the energy of your project and you know at any time how healthy it is, how big and if it needs something active on your side.

It requires your understanding that in the new time everything has its own energy identity. Also your projects. What does it mean, if a project is subject to the new laws?

We would like to list a few points here:

- Projects of the new era urgently require pure and clear energy. Because it is their energy that attracts by resonance. Therefore, actively deal with every little aspect until you realize that now is pure and clear.

- Moreover, a project of the new era is not growing linearly. Its growth happens rather circularly. Usually considered over a longer period exclusively energy-based and thus, seemingly in the hidden, material based seen. Sometimes, you can see one aspect, yet it goes again. Then, it shows up another, and leaves again etc. That is why it requires your energy-based, and thus, expanded perceptions so you always know where your project is.
- New-time relationships bases on mindfulness and respect. They often include an impersonal form of love. Perhaps you have already experienced it: a form of love that is comprehensive in its love and at the same time without emotional imposition and without any abusive energy. A form of love that feels different. Pure and clear.
- You yourself are increasingly radiating this form of love. Something that draws people to you. They intuitively feel comfortable around you. And sometimes they do not want to leave anymore ...
