1. Introduction

Light technology is a special process that works on the basis of light. And if we keep talking about light in this book, it seems important to us that we first define what we're talking about, when we write light.

In the human living space, various "lights" exist, and all of these are not meant here. Rather, the light we mean is a special form of energy. One that you can only experience in an energy-based way and this only, if you are a very highly developed human being and your personal basic vibration frequency is at the level of your natural size. This means, among other things (also), that you yourself are fully conscious again and, thanks to your high natural size, are rooted in the energy-based dimension.

If you have the described prerequisites and are highly developed and capable, you can perceive light as a very specific form of energy, provided that light approaches you. A wonderful experience, since light is an extremely pleasant form of energy.

However, the fact that you can perceive light does not mean that you are also able to work with it.

- You need an immensely high level of personal integrity. Something that not all highly evolved people carry within themselves.

- You need a clear order for this and an «official» o.k. for your ability to do so. You receive the appropriate authority from the Council of Light and you honestly have to go through a great many tests before you receive it. It then, stays with you as long as you need it, and you treat it cleanly and with integrity.
- You need a light-based human body, and you don't get that just like that either.
- You need a personal connection to the ninth dimension of planet earth, and you only get this if you are explicitly authorized and enabled to work with light technology in the human habitat.

This book is the fourth volume in the "Light Technology" book series and is aimed at those people who know purely and clearly that they will implement light technology in the human habitat. Ideally, you have also read volumes one to three, as this book is based on the knowledge contained there.

You have a light-based human body, are connected to the ninth dimension, you have arrived safely in this new being and you know pure and clear about your future project in which you will implement light technology in the human habitat. If you nodded inwardly during the last few lines, we are happy to be able to support and accompany you with this book on your very personal path.

If not, please put the book aside. It will not serve you and will only steal your valuable time. Your own personal time.

In the context of light technology, one could write “you use light very consciously for the benefit of all living things”. However, this statement is only partially true, as light cannot be used consciously in the sense of the form of "use" that you as a human being are usually familiar with. Light cannot be commanded. Nor can you control it or make it available to others. If you work consciously with light, you always work as a transmitter. Just as you already know it from working with high-frequency forms of energy. At the same time, the conscious work with light absolutely requires your complete connection to the ninth dimension and thus, the basic attitudes of “not wanting to bring about” and the value-free and unconditional love of the ninth dimension discussed in volume 3. Of course, you can also practice the basic attitudes described as an average person, possibly already connected to the fifth dimension, and adopt them to a certain extent in your conscious work. Something that definitely supports positively. However, you can only carry the described attitude (including the associated vibration frequency) stably in you while you act as a transmitter for light, if you yourself have a light-based human body (something that you know inwardly pure and clear). And if you are connected to the ninth dimension and are therefore subordinate to it and its laws.

When you have your first conscious contact with light, you will understand why. Light carries an immense power within itself, and you must first be able to consciously endure and bear this power in your human being. Your own high level of development may help you in this respect, but it is usually not really enough and so the light-based human body and the conscious connection to the ninth dimension bring you into a fundamentally stable starting position in order to be able to work with light in many ways.

You cannot work with light without carrying the already described basic attitudes of unconditional and value-free love and the conscious “not wanting to make things happen” pure and stable in you and you don’t get these basic attitudes in the supermarket. Rather, they are based on your very high level of integrity, your very high level of personal development and very, very much conscious and intensive inner work in this one life. In order to be able to consciously work with light, you must have consciously and sustainably dissolved the typical human attitude of active doing in the course of this inner process, you must be completely value-free, and you must have the unintentional and clear inner attitude of conscious allowing (in great abundance) implemented sustainably, in yourself.

If you act as a conscious transmitter in the field of high-frequency forms of energy, this is a conscious, purely passive service. You pass on the high-frequency forms of energy (adapted to the respective recipient). The corresponding adjustment performance takes place by means of your own holistic system and the high-frequency forms of energy, in turn, then have an effect on the recipient on their own. An extremely valuable, but basically passive service, in which you can consciously practice the basic attitude of a human transmitter a few times.

In relation to light, your basic function and your basic attitude is the same. However, light is much stronger and more powerful, and it is able to have a much deeper and more comprehensive effect. At the same time, light can also be extremely creative and if you are a master of light yourself, light becomes your material, which you process within yourself with your diverse abilities according to the respective recipient and only then let it flow to him. This multiplies the effect of light and also pleases it. Light works best with highly competent beings. And if you are able to work with light (something that you recognize, among other things, from the fact that light consciously approaches you), this distinguishes you immensely. Light captures your high abilities, your high purity and your personal integrity. Something you can't do. You have to be.

Within the framework of this book, we will try to put into words some of the mentioned additional abilities of a master of light. At the same time, it is you who must already have these skills within you in order to be able to use them.

We will also comment on the subject of the projects that are now starting in the field of light technology in the context of human living space. This with the aim of consciously encouraging you on the one hand that you are not alone with your respective project, but rather, very consciously part of a whole and of course also to inspire you, perhaps for one or the other aspect of an ongoing project to use in yours.

At the same time, in this volume we will deal with your very personal role resp. task in the field of light technology and very consciously support you in carrying it pure and clear in you.

2. Light technology

Light technology means a conscious use of light based on the criteria mentioned at the beginning. You cannot acquire the skills required for this in this one human life, so you must already carry them within you from previous lives. Light technology is based on a conscious attitude of «doing nothing», knowing that you will still affect extremely large. And this requires a great deal of trust in yourself and in your own abilities, but of course also in light technology itself.

If light technology is your topic, you have probably prepared very consciously for it in recent years. At best, without you being aware of it, you worked through a number of other things at the same time. However, it helps you, if you are aware of where you have already worked with light in the last few months. And so, we take the liberty of inviting you to an exercise in this regard.

Exercise

Retreat to a quiet, undisturbed and beautiful place, make yourself comfortable there and consciously breathe deeply in and out a few times. Then ask your own inner essential self to show you the situations in which you have already worked with light over the past few weeks and months. Also ask that you record what you did when and how. Let also show you what it actually did for the respective counterpart.

You will know when is complete. Rest a bit so that you can integrate holistically.

It helps you when you realize that you already have all the necessary skills within you and when you realize how easily they are accessible to you. However, this in no way diminishes your personal path to date and the high level of personal achievement it contains. It's just that you can no longer appropriate the here and now, but rather everything must be present in you. It only can unfold in this one human life, what already belongs to you in this respect. It must now become continuously consciously accessible to you, and you must consciously adapt your abilities in this regard to your current human life and the current human living space. Something you don't have to consciously influence (nor can you, to be honest), but rather happens very consciously under the guidance of your own inner being.

Well, you've got practical examples related to light technology through the exercise. And you have probably meanwhile also your very personal related project in the field of light technology in the human living space in you. Because, just as you act as a conscious transmitter for light and adapt it optimally in your body to the respective recipient, your project is also a story in which you know exactly how you work when and why using light technology and at the same time, you also consciously adapt your work to the human environment and thus adapt the project and the services it contains to the earth and the people who live on it. A complex, comprehensive and high performance on your part, so.

We may repeat ourselves, but your high personal achievement is immense. Yet, it is invaluable to the entire planet. And as much as you focus on your essential tasks and look forward to your diverse (and great) work, always very consciously allow your very personal complete well-being. Very consciously allow:

- Your very personal fullness.
- Any form of benefit.
- Any form of support and
- Any form of compensation in this regard.

Great abundance is yours. Yet, you have to allow and accept it yourself.

Light technology is a process that no one can show you and no one can explain to you. You must already carry light technology within you. Then, every single word you read or hear about makes sense. You will then know exactly what is being discussed and what is specifically meant in each case. Light technology is highly effective and at the same time absolutely safe. Because it can only be applied by someone who, on the one hand, has studied for decades in this area and, on the other hand, has the necessary holistic skills. Light technology can therefore neither be copied nor misused in any way. Important requirements, especially in the human environment.

In the next few decades there will be a few hundred, and eventually a few thousand, highly developed and capable people who will now work more and more with light technology. Here and now (January 2023), there are just a few. You, for example.

In the last few months, you have practiced gliding in high spheres, connected to the ninth dimension and at the same time, integrated into the material-based human habitat, living and acting close to earth. During this time, you have harmonized the large range in this regard within yourself and can now do both. Being in the ninth dimension, while living in the material based human habitat. Important prerequisites for your project in the field of light technology. On the one hand, you need your high energy-based skills so consciously in you that you always know clearly what you are doing and why exactly you do it. And on the other hand, you have to be able to authentically adapt your (light-based) work to the material-based human habitat. This, as a conscious and natural part of human society. High, very high demands, therefore.

And if you are mindful, you will realize that your project in this regard has long since manifested its first pieces of the puzzle, in your very practical life. For example, you are already working in an organization that fits your project perfectly and in which a whole range of other highly developed people work. Yet, you suddenly realize that your current human outside has been heavily prepared in recent years, and now, everything is there, so you can get started. Different than expected and yet extremely appropriate.

The project of implementing light technology in the human habitat is a universal and global project under the auspices of the Galactic Federation of Light and a closely guided accompaniment of the Council of Light. The project has been in existence for several hundred years and thousands of highly evolved beings have very consciously used various of their incarnations at various consciously chosen locations as preparation for the project itself. Since SEOS was founded, SEOS has also been involved in the project and you can probably imagine how big, comprehensive and also well networked and carefully funded the project is.

As an active human member of the project team, you experience something similar to what you experience in your current human embodiment:

- You are a master being and at the same time a completely normal person in human habitat.
- You are an extremely important part of the project team "Implementation of light technology in human living space" and at the same time a cog among several thousand other cogs.
- And so, you are important, valuable and precious and at the same time this one contribution in the field of light technology is primarily about yourself, your conscious personal contribution and your conscious personal development. Universal energy-based parameters, thus. Something different than usual in human habitation.
