1. Introduction

To anticipate: I do not write any magical books that help you to get financial wealth as quickly and easily as possible. I also don't write any spiritual or esoteric guides that open the "spiritual access to money" for the reader and tell you what to do and when. Rather, my books are aimed at a specific group of people who need specific answers in order to be able to move faster and more effectively in their own processes.

If you are on your own personal process of becoming fully aware and your personal vibration frequency has increased to such an extent that your holistic system changes levels and you are henceforth subject to the energy-based dimension and its laws, you will find yourself faced with completely new challenges. On the one hand, you will be detached from the world economic system and many of your previous material-based tasks and, on the other hand, you will increasingly find yourself being led in a direction that you would never have sought if you had been free. It's not that this direction doesn't appeal and lure you. Rather, it is well outside of what you have known so far and also well outside of what is accepted in human society. Something that irritates your human mind and involuntarily makes you stand still.

After all, you were always somehow different and worked hard to find a reasonably fitting place in human society. And now, are you supposed to be so exceedingly outside of human norms? How is that supposed to work? Excluded? Smiled at? Without money and therefore dependent in many ways? What you feel inside of you reminds you of becoming a nerd, something you really do not want and we can understand you well.

Well, a human mind is quite taxed in the course of a process of becoming fully conscious. And, at some point, he gets to a point where he clearly overwhelms himself with the task of organizing your human life and mastering it in general. At a certain point on the path to becoming fully conscious, your human mind can no longer comprehend what is happening to you. What you are now continuously experiencing is clearly too big for him and is far too far outside of his known norms and experiences for him to be able to classify and understand the new with his previous reference values. This inevitably brings great turmoil and insecurity into your current human life and your human self becomes increasingly uncomfortable and insecure.

Therefore, your human mind must (be able to) explicitly understand, so that your human self is calm and secure in the long term and, especially during a certain transitional period in which he still lacks the corresponding (good!) experiences, trustingly continues into the unknown ahead of him.

And so, we decided on this book. A book that should support and enrich you in many ways. You, personally!

“We” in this book are:

Susanne Edelmann, current human embodiment of Ascended Master Lady Nayla Og-Min and writing author.

Lord St. Germain, Ascended Master, embodied in human form with the purpose of consciously assisting humans on the path to full consciousness and to implement Light Technology in the human habitat of planet Earth.

Lord Ben Joseph, Ascended Master, embodied in human form with the purpose of consciously assisting humans on the path of full consciousness and implementing the Light Technology in the human habitat of planet Earth.

The aim of this book is to consciously support your human self and your human mind during a certain phase of your awareness process. If you find yourself in this process, you walk into a wide, unknown field. This happens in an individual way and so, you cannot orientate yourself on external norms or specifications. At the same time, you implement something new, wholesome, and beneficial, in human society and on the materially based level of planet earth. This is not always recognized immediately by your fellow human beings, nor is it always appreciated, and here you will very often not find any external templates in this regard as well. It happens out of you.

An unbelievably big challenge that you are currently facing, from a purely objective point of view from the outside. Yet, the challenge is just as big, carried and lived in a purely practical way. That's why you have to become very self-confident and become more and more sure of yourself. So sure, that you keep doing, you keep walking, and you keep acting. This, although most of your fellow human beings do not understand you and do not even begin to grasp what you are doing on a large scale. You have to be very sure of yourself and always consciously know and understand what you are doing and why you are doing it. Yet, you must know (safely) within yourself that you are safe at all times in your current human life. Even if you repeatedly move far outside of human and social norms and guidelines. This fact takes time and your (increasing) awareness. In this area, too, you are walking an (increasingly conscious) path on which you will grasp and understand in many ways and thus at a later point in time be able to support other, future people more consciously and more effectively on their path.

You are therefore in no hurry. You will succeed one way or another and so you can very consciously enjoy your very personal path and your current here and now. Get involved again and again and focus not only on the challenges, but also on the gifts that are in your current here and now. Consciously accept. Not only the tasks that are now continuously opening up before you, but also the many good things that want to be given to you.

The tools you use in your varied and often new and unusual work are all well-known to your core being. However, your human self and your human spirit must first get to know them and especially trust them. You are traveling as a whole. And only when you are comfortable as a whole, you can work in full power. And so, in this book we try to put into human words what cannot really be put into words and trust that your essential mind will cooperate and translate and explain it in a way that suits you.

If you are on your personal path of becoming conscious and then change levels in the course of this process, certain topics will begin to behave differently. You submit to the energy-based dimension and its laws, even if you continue to move as normal in the material-based living space. And this fact is not only to be grasped, but also to be understood more and more by means of your human mind. Money behaves differently, now. Even if you continue to live normally, like before. And since money is such an important issue in Western human society, this fact can repeatedly frighten and unsettle you. Something that is clearly not good for you. Therefore, you should understand in depth how money behaves when it is subject to energy-based laws. So that you can then observe and recognize more and more in very practical everyday life, so that you can grasp it more and more and, over time, also trust it comprehensively.

You must be fine. Also, during your path of becoming fully conscious. After all, you are already carrying more than enough with this specific challenge. And what can support you in this challenge, you should also receive.

Well, let's talk about money. Money, from an energy-based perspective, right in the middle of people's material-based habitat. Money that serves you, enriches you and delights you. Money that meets your essential needs and reflects your natural size.

In order for you to be able to benefit from this book, however, you must have a few prerequisites:

- You have a high level of personal development.
- You have a high personal basic vibration frequency and your holistic being has changed levels.
- You know within yourself that you need this book.

You will not find all three answers in your human mind, but you carry them within you as inner knowledge. If not, we ask you to put the book aside. It just steals your valuable time. Time that you can put to better use elsewhere. However, if you know clearly within yourself that you need this book, we look forward to being able to accompany and support you on your path.

The book is structured as a kind of workshop. Because your human mind has to explicitly understand. For this to happen, on the one hand you will consciously grasp it for the first time using your expanded, energy-based mind, but then, you should consciously let your own inner essential self guide you in such a way that you encounter the described topic in your very practical everyday life and so, your human mind can also grasp for the first time. We will also guide you repeatedly through energy-based and material-based exercises. These should also help you to grasp the topic in depth so that you can then continue calmly and safely on your way.

May this book serve you! You, personally!

Cordially

Germain, Lord Ben Josef

2. Basic lessons

As a human being, you are used to certain behaviors with money (if you need it, you first have to check whether the required amount is in the account, for example. Or you have to work to get enough money for your having available means of subsistence, as another example). These behaviors correspond to the circumstances and the laws of the materially based living space and its frame of thought. And we assume, here and now, that you are sufficiently fit in this topic to understand what we mean by that. We therefore assume as a basic requirement for your further procedure that you are sufficiently familiar with the materially based effects of money and do not want to go into them any further at this point. Ideally, you are also sufficiently familiar with the fundamental energy-based facts and laws, as you need this knowledge in order to be able to understand the energy-based dimension of money on the one hand and then how money acts at the interface between energy-based and material-based dimension on the other.

Well, the energy-based effects of money may not be fully familiar to you at the moment, so we start our workshop with a corresponding introductory lesson

2.1 Lesson 1: Money from an energy-based perspective

We assume that you are now sufficiently familiar with the energy-based dimension, its circumstances and its laws. If you feel that this is not the case, we ask you to put this book aside and ask your own inner essential self to consciously show you what is still missing. If needed, the book “The energy-based dimension” that we have already published can help you with this. But you yourself know what you need.

At this point, we would like to go into some of the first circumstances in this regard.

On an energetic level, whatever comes your way serves you. Diverse.

Therefore, money serves you too. Always. Basically.

As a person, you are used to dealing with money in a certain way. As a rule, you focus on certain amounts of money that have proven to be correct or right in your life so far. At the same time, you continuously plan and organize ahead and use money very consciously for your plans and wishes. Very often these are mental ideas in the context of social norms and patterns or personal experiences, inner values and personal thought structures. However, if money begins to serve you consciously, it can certainly happen that the amount of money that you were used to so far tends to decline, thereby pointing you to your current overall situation: rest and retreat are announced. You need a holistic break. At your home. Provided in abundance with everything you need during this time. A classic energy-based situation. However, your human mind is now focusing on its usual previous parameters (amount of money, usual flow of money, etc.). And if these parameters are declining or even disappear (previous job), he starts to get restless. In addition, a human mind draws conclusions from your current here and now and calculates in this way how your front will develop and whether you already have certain precautionary tasks to complete here and now. Now, however, you can no longer draw any conclusions for your front on an energy-based level. Basically. No more. Because what happens to you here and now always is something that optimally serves you holistically here and now. You are always completely safe. Purely factual, seen from the outside. Your human mind, however, repeatedly sees this very differently, because increasingly, life doesn't happen as usual.

The situation described is a classic novel situation when you begin to live in the intersection of the two dimensions. You are still moving in your usual human material-based environment and yet, you are now subject to the energy-based circumstances and laws. Something that you absolutely have to understand in practice so that you can continue to do well. And if it feels right for you, put the book aside and take the topic with you into your next few days. Observe and explore and let your own inner essential self show you practical examples of this new situation.

The previous lines may read objectively and logically but going through them in a very practical way poses quite a challenge. You will find your own way of dealing with the change described, over time. A possible support variant is formulated at this point.

Possible support variant

Withdraw to a quiet, undisturbed and beautiful place, take paper and pens with you and then make yourself comfortable. Now, very factually, write down the amounts of money that are currently freely available to you. Then write down all the money you have to pay in the next three months. If you now honestly look at the amount of money that is then freely available, you will find that you have enough money for living, eating and clothing for the next three months.

Now, enter into a conscious dialogue with your own inner essential self and let it show you how long your current personal break lasts, what the holistic goal of this time is and what the first step after that will look like. Very consciously formulate your fears, your worries, your insecurities, your feelings, your needs and your wishes. Repeat this conscious inner exchange again and again. Until you are completely calm within yourself.

However, if the amount available is not enough from a purely factual point of view, be very honest with yourself. Allow quick and good solutions and let your own inner essential self show you these consciously. In such a situation, something is wrong, and it helps if you look honestly, honestly work through it and honestly face any developmental tasks that you have previously resisted. If you are honest and open, you will see and recognize.

A reduced amount of money can repeatedly destabilize you and arouse multiple fears. Some people freeze in anxiety. They block completely and become somewhat numb. A state that requires a lot of inner strength and is not good for them. And if you recognize yourself in the state described, we encourage you to move very consciously in these situations. Go for a run, jog, swim, etc. Whatever is good for you. Get moving and free yourself from your holistic torpor.

But for others, fear drives them into uncontrolled activism. They act out any number of supposed solutions, are here and there again and try in this way to create security and thus peace and clarity on the outside. However, they are only (still) able to do this to a limited extent under the new circumstances. They are now subject to the energy-based laws, and this is where calm and clarity on the outside arise from calm and clarity on the inside. And if you belong to the "restless type" yourself and if you like, try to withdraw a little from the situations described, let the fear consciously take up space in your lower abdomen and let it flow through you until it becomes more and more calm and clear, in your inside. Then consciously allow to see in the big context. And at the same time very consciously formulate your fears, your worries, your discomfort, your needs and your wishes.

If you are in real financial need, the first step is to honestly admit this and then, in a second step, to open yourself very consciously to quick and good solutions. Waiting and hoping is usually the wrong way to act in such a situation. The energy-based dimension is not a magical dimension in which you turn to the good with positive thoughts or subtle beings suggest solutions to you or even save you from difficult situations. If you are connected to the energy-based level, what is currently inside you shows clearly on the outside. And it is important to be aware of that. And if you feel that you have not yet grasped this fact in depth, and it feels right for you, put the book aside again, take the topic with you to the next few days and let your own inner essential self consciously point out appropriate illustrative examples. Then, work on the topic until you know it comprehensively and are able to implement it in unconscious competence.

The time when you have rather small amounts of money at your disposal (and at the same time, from a purely factual point of view, are able to finance everything you currently need) is part of a certain transition phase in which you are asked to once again consciously (and often also
