1. Introduction

Each planet has different habitats and different dimensions. A natural occurrence in the universe. Basically, these are the same four dimensions, even if, strictly speaking, this cannot necessarily be said to be the case, as each planet is very different in its own circumstances and the respective habitats also differ once tremendous. Item, most of these planets have a ninth dimension. And this one dimension contains a similar basic structure on each of these planets, since it serves the same goal on each individual planet: The regeneration between individual incarnations and the conscious selection and planning of the next incarnation.

Light is the primary source of all being and this light "gives birth" to personalized "drops of light" as required. A being of pure light that has its own basic personality and now has the opportunity to develop and unfold personally through diverse experiences. Once all possible experiences have been made and a being can therefore no longer develop further, it returns to the original source and dissolves there.

The newly created personalities are usually supported by a team of experienced beings trained in this regard in choosing their first place for their first incarnation. The earth was and is a rather unsuitable place for a very first incarnation, as the conditions there are not really suitable for "absolute beginners". However, there have been a few who have attempted their very first incarnation on Earth. They all had to abort this incarnation, regardless of which dimension and realm this incarnation was performed in. The conditions were just too demanding. And so, it was decided by the Council of Light that no more first incarnations are allowed to take place on planet earth. A very sensible decision to this day.

When a being incarnates for the first time, the planet on which it incarnates becomes its home planet. Said being now, returns to the ninth dimension of this one planet for a period of time each time it completes an incarnation. The respective regeneration phase between two incarnations serves on the one hand for the conscious processing and reflection of the incarnation just completed and on the other hand for the conscious planning of the new incarnation.

A support team (composed according to their personal level of development) is available to the respective being. This team may call on it for support at any time. Both in the conscious processing of the past incarnation and in the conscious planning of the new incarnation. The regeneration phase between two incarnations always takes place in the ninth dimension of the respective home planet of a being. Without exception.

If a being then has a personal development level of a master, the being can be requested by the Council of Light or the Galactic Federation of Light for specific orders and thus corresponding order incarnations. However, the decision as to whether this order is accepted and carried out is always up to the respective being itself.

If a being has then decided on a specific planet as the place of residence for its next incarnation, it usually changes to the ninth dimension of this planet, because, directly on site, certain preparatory work can be carried out better.

The ninth dimension remains consciously closed to all incarnated beings. Nevertheless, a universal novelty is now being dared on earth: the fact of the light-based human body including the related connection to the ninth dimension of the planet. This fact has been discussed at a universal level for a very, very long time, and on the planet itself, alternative solutions have been attempted by various very highly evolved humans for several centuries. All of these attempts failed. There was only one variant that did what was needed: the conscious design of a light-based human body and the connection of this specific body to the ninth dimension. Light has stabilized and empowered as nothing else could. Therefore, the Council of Light approved what a few hundred highly developed people will now live very practically in the coming decades: the conversion of their own human body into a light-based human body and the connection to the ninth dimension of planet Earth. This with the aim of either working as an active member of SEOS or introducing light technology in human living space.

Each of these human embodied beings has a master level in their personal development level in the minim (even if this was usually not achieved on planet earth, which is ultimately irrelevant). Whoever is in said group of people, therefore has a very high level of personal development and has also gone through a large number of very consciously set tests in this one human life and mastered them successfully.

Viewed from the outside, it is an immense pleasure to watch these individual people on their successful path. Something uniquely beautiful is happening with and through these people. What has happened so far has been amazing.

Well, we're not done with this project yet. Some will work in the area of SEOS, others in the area of light technology. And a few will be involved in both projects.

In the last book we dealt with the light-based human body and now, in this book, we would like to deal with its connection, the ninth dimension. More precisely, with the facts and laws of the ninth dimension. You are subject to these circumstances and laws as soon as you have a light-based human body at your disposal, and it helps you if you are not only aware of it, but also know about the new practical effects related to this, as these lead to some (additional) challenges, in the setting of a human life, honestly.

At the same time, you also have to grasp and understand it in many ways, since said connection serves you for one of your essential tasks. You can only fully use what you have grasped in depth. And you need this for your future task.

The connection to the ninth dimension represents a benefit and clear support for all of us. Honestly, we could only carry out our orders relatively if we didn't have this connection and, in this way, said connection ultimately also represents an aspect of the basic equipment required for our respective order. At the same time, however, the connection also challenges to a degree that has never existed before on a planet. You are subordinate to the ninth dimension and its conditions and laws, and at the same time you are mainly moving in the third dimension of a planet that has particularly difficult conditions in the third dimension. Rather, we will implement the light technology in this one living space of the people.

This means that on the one hand, you have to know the circumstances and the laws of the ninth dimension, since you are subject to them from now on as soon as you have a light-based human body at your disposal. Yet, on the other hand, after the physical conversion has taken place, you immerse yourself again very consciously in the human living space in the third dimension, consciously root your human life there and learn to consciously harmonize the immense range between the third and ninth dimensions within yourself.

The related task is its own and you will solve it in your own way. Meanwhile, we would like to formulate some aspects in this book that can support you in successfully solving the task in question.

2. The ninth dimension

The conscious connection to the ninth dimension enables all people who have a light-based human body to access all dimensions on planet earth. This fact gives the respective people the opportunity to use their vibration-based abilities (aspects of the seventh dimension, actually) in the field of light technology or to be able to consciously visit the individual energy-based living spaces in human embodiment. Conditions that facilitate and support certain tasks significantly, on the one hand.

On the other hand, this connection also leads to additional challenges for you as a person and we will always include these in the book.

The ninth dimension is completely free and focuses on the respective personal examination of oneself and the respective personal development. There are no structures on this level, and you will encounter this fact repeatedly in this book. The ninth dimension cannot be structured even if you try. This specific challenge will accompany you from the moment your being is connected to the ninth dimension, because at the same time, you also live a thoroughly human life in the human habitat, and both the human habitat and the average human life are shaped by structures in a variety of ways.

You will get to know the free form of the ninth dimension for the first time in the context of this book, designed and yet the book behaves completely differently than any other book you have ever read. If you're feeling overwhelmed, put it aside, rest, and let yourself be guided when it's time to pick it up again and read on. Also, when reading, get fully involved with what is written. You will capture all of the content, but in a different way than before.

The condition described means that the content of the book cannot (or only relatively) be formed into a structure and thus also not (or only relatively) into a content structure. It is written according to the ninth dimension. Free flowing. A challenge for the writing author Susanne, to be honest.

In the ninth dimension there are no orders and no structures. You won't find anything there that you could hold on to or even orient yourself to in any way. If you come into contact with the energy of this dimension for the first time, this will unsettle you, but the immense breadth, beauty and love of this energy outweighs it and so, allegedly, you instinctively just let go. The energy of the ninth dimension touches you in a beneficial and healing way. You instinctively feel that you can fully trust and so, you immerse for the first time.

Well, as humans we would like to deal with the facts of the ninth dimension and get to know a very specific one right from the start: There are no structures. And if you consciously immerse yourself in the ninth dimension, everything becomes blurred at first, you are confused, disoriented, unsteady, can't hold on anywhere (not even internally) and don't know how to deal with it. You will probably encounter this situation again and again during the conversion phase of your human body into a light-based human body: You suddenly stand there, disoriented, limitlessly free and cannot grasp and classify a moment.

Well, from now on you know the underlying theory: In said moments you are completely immersed with your being in the ninth dimension for a short sequence. The situation described will happen to you again and again even after the conversion has been completed and over time, you will find your own way of dealing with this challenge. Ideally, you just let go completely and engage freely and fully. Be aware, breathe aware and allow. Beyond anything you've ever known so far.

This requires an enormous amount of maturity on your part. One of the crucial keys to opening up the ninth dimension to you. However, it also requires a great deal of trust: in yourself, in your new way of life and in your own personal path.

As has already been emphasized several times, the demands on you are immense. You have to keep trying new things. You are repeatedly confronted with situations that you sometimes cannot classify from the start and in which you then have to intuitively and spontaneously find your own good behavior. The situations described also take place again and again in the context of other people and here too, you have to trust that you are safe and protected at all times.

A person is used to living and learning on the basis of structures. Structures not only provide support, they, also arrange things in a beneficial way, allow a certain overview and the possibility to control. Structures can also be used to analyze, reflect and consciously check. Also, the respective learning success. Most people perceive completely free as chaotic, confusing and "unprofessional". Yet, being completely devoid of any structure can also be frightening and insecure.

And now, it might be that these words touch something deep inside you; you have worked so many times in your previous human life in the free form described. Yet, some of these times you received reprimands from other people. Your behavior has unsettled, frightened or overwhelmed your respective environment. They then, often started to evaluate and judge: Too chaotic, too unprofessional, not according to the guidelines and therefore very, very wrong. And when you read this, you understand at most that you have always (also) had your natural size with you, albeit completely unconsciously. And said size has often made you think and act far outside of human norms. You made an enormous impression and made a difference in the situations mentioned. At the same time, your respective thinking, speaking or acting did not lead to great joy in those around you, but rather to (unqualified) evaluation and devaluation. Your fellow human beings couldn't grasp what you thought or did so big and so they called it wrong. If you feel that these experiences are still hanging in you in some form, put the book aside and allow a complete dissolution in this regard. Being able to understand and classify is one thing, the other part consists of conscious processing and conscious resolution. This is the only way you will become permanently free.

Most very highly evolved people have had similar experiences. Time and time again they behaved in accordance with their true size, for example speaking out and revealing the truth. However, their environment consisted mostly of people with a significantly smaller natural size. "Authorities" who have neither understood nor comprehended, thus. And so, the respective highly developed people were usually reprimanded, disciplined / punished, labeled as unqualified or unprofessional, sometimes even diagnosed and treated as children, mocked, judged, excluded and judged wrong. A very horrible story!!

Said experiences have left some deep injuries in you. However, they also meant that from then on you consciously veiled yourself and dimmed your own size and at the same time, judged yourself harshly as soon as you spoke or acted in the form described. Please resolve the whole thing consciously and lovingly take yourself in your arms. What did you have to endure, just because of your high level of personal development and the unconsciousness, lovelessness and arrogance of your fellow human beings (and partly also of yourself, to be honest).

Well, you need your natural power to be fully available again for your essential tasks, so it is worth consciously working through and consciously dealing with the topic described. So that your natural size may now be complete.

Your power lies at the higher level.

As a human, you are taught to conform to the laws of the third dimension and the diverse laws and structures of the human society. This all helps you to successfully master the material-based dimension. Your first level of learning, in a human incarnation. One that usually requires many human lives. However, your power and your capability of living out your full potential lies in living out your natural size. Something that is not only not known and not lived in human living space, but rather is permanently prevented by the structures, norms, rules of conduct, etc. lived there.

As a highly evolved human being, you do not attain your natural power as long as you fit into the structures of human society. However, you need exactly this power to be able to act in your natural size.

If the consciousness of a highly developed person expands, he usually grasps the topic described for the first time and then tries to solve it in his own way. Yet, he is often only relatively successful in this, as he does not integrate the energy-based laws into his thoughts and actions, and in doing so, he usually unconsciously reinforces in his life what he increasingly rejects and actually no longer wants. If you want to make lasting changes, in human society and in your own life, you have to dive in consciously and value-free and live it consciously and value-free. Be completely value-free internally, consciously immerse yourself in lived fiction, stick to all the norms and structures lived there and felt to be important and at the same time keep your own high vibration frequency stable and high. Be very mindful and very conscious in the said situation, without consciously wanting to cause. Because, viewed from an energy-based point of view, the attitude “wanting to cause”, “throws one or the other branch between your legs”, metaphorically speaking and as already deepen in the book “the light-based human body”; if your own being has a certain high own frequency, the attitude “wanting to cause” does not cause (anymore) what you wanted.

Instead, adopt the attitude of complete love and a conscious investigator. Immerse yourself in said fiction, behave appropriately and at the same time keep that which you grasp as the respective truth pure and clearly stable in yourself. If you consciously don't want to change and instead want to learn and understand, the situation described will serve you in many ways and you will leave it after a while richly rewarded. Naturally. Without any pressure. Because you have successfully solved all tasks of the said situation and now the new (more suitable) setting is coming your way. Effortless. At the same time, your personal stay in said setting has had many effects. And it is worthwhile if you observe without judgment and consciously let yourself be shown how large and varied your work was, in this regard.

If you move higher and higher on your personal path of becoming conscious, in the energy-based dimensions, you have to increasingly let yourself go and consciously get involved. You can't plan
